Perspectives on lifestyles, separate values, expectations, concerns, viewpoints and differing interests

Students of various ethnic backgrounds came together to share educational experiences, and yet retained their cultural identity.

As individuals in an integrated school, students were left with a memorable and distinct impression of people from different backgrounds.

Leading, following; friends found security in their own groups.

*Recreation rounded out student life.
Activities included guitar playing, sports, parties and frisbee games.*

STUDENT LIFE

TRENDS

Boots, gauchos, "Deckers" and painter's pants

were among the clothing fashions found at Tucson High. Other fads were double pierced ears and braided hair in various designs under big floppy hats.

As many students proved (upper right) the craze for the summer shoe "deckers" did not end with the poolside.

Erin Flinn (bottom right) wore "gauchos" which allowed her the look of a dress and the freedom of pants.

Before cold weather set in Jay Higgins wore a striped Rugby shirt (bottom right) that was the popular fashion for guys this year.

NOONTIME

Split lunch periods, less time and more rush were all results of noontime unrest on the campus. The changes were instituted in the middle of the second quarter. Two 35 minute periods limited eating off campus drastically.

Students backed the school board's suggestion to sell nuts and fruit at the snack bar. The administration worked to establish an intramural sports program. Games such as tennis, basketball, and ping pong were scheduled for the lunch period.

Planters in front of the library provided a place for students (this page upper left) to eat their lunch.

Many students (middle) ate lunches which consisted of a blend of their own food and a menu offered at the snack bar.

The patio in front of the cafeteria and snack bar provided a place for students who preferred to eat outdoors (upper right)

Red and white with decorated lockers

before games livened up the student body. A new pep-up club was formed to install enthusiasm and to strengthen the tradition of wearing red and white on Fridays.

Decorated halls during spirit week, boosted student moral with a variety of themes ranging from "Badger Territory" to "Tucson High, Home of the Champions."

Before Christmas vacation, homeroom students collected old toys and food (upper right) so they could give a family a Christmas gift.

Facing page: Working as a volunteer for a political campaign, Lisa Crews (middle) urged Democrats to vote.

At the conclusion of a fire-drill, Johnny Theoret and Rex Janssen ran along Euclid so they (upper left) could get back to class.

A senior class of years ago donated the benches (upper right) which when combined with the shade of a tree provided a resting place.

The new fence at Tucson High was locked, but that didn't stop Grey Murphy from entering the (this page upper right) school grounds

Even though classed had ended, these students remained on the school ground and had an (right center) afterschool snack.

After helping a teacher after school, several students (bottom left) walked down the hall of the vocational building to catch the late bus.

AFTERSCHOOL

Jobs, club meetings and homework were just a few of the things that occupied students' time after school. Students with an involvement in a Varsity sport spent this time practicing.

Roses, and attendants, Kings and Queens were all a part of this year's Homecoming celebration. This was the first year for a King at THS because of a Title IX requirement that schools remove sexual bias. It was the first time the Student Council instead of the Tucsonian sponsored the contest.

After the Homecoming game, students attended the dance (this page bottom left) at which Force provided the music.

Homecoming finalists (bottom) Cora Jacobs, Ron Ramirez, Nedrea Clayton, Shon Neal, Karen Solano Kurt Claussen, Myra Robinson, and Ron Shepard

HOMECOMING

"Carter vs Ford," a mock Presidential election, allowed students to choose their candidate. This and activities such as Model Legislature, Private College Night and Model U.N. supplied students with a variety of outside fun and learning experiences.

RODEO

Twirp week, Skiing at Purgatory and the Stable Stomp sponsored by Girl's League were some of the activities which took place during Rodeo Week.
A Rodeo King and Queen
as well as Royalty were chosen by the students.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT AND HONORS

Suppressing a laugh, President of the Senate Barbara Beagle (top right) gaveled the Student Government to order.

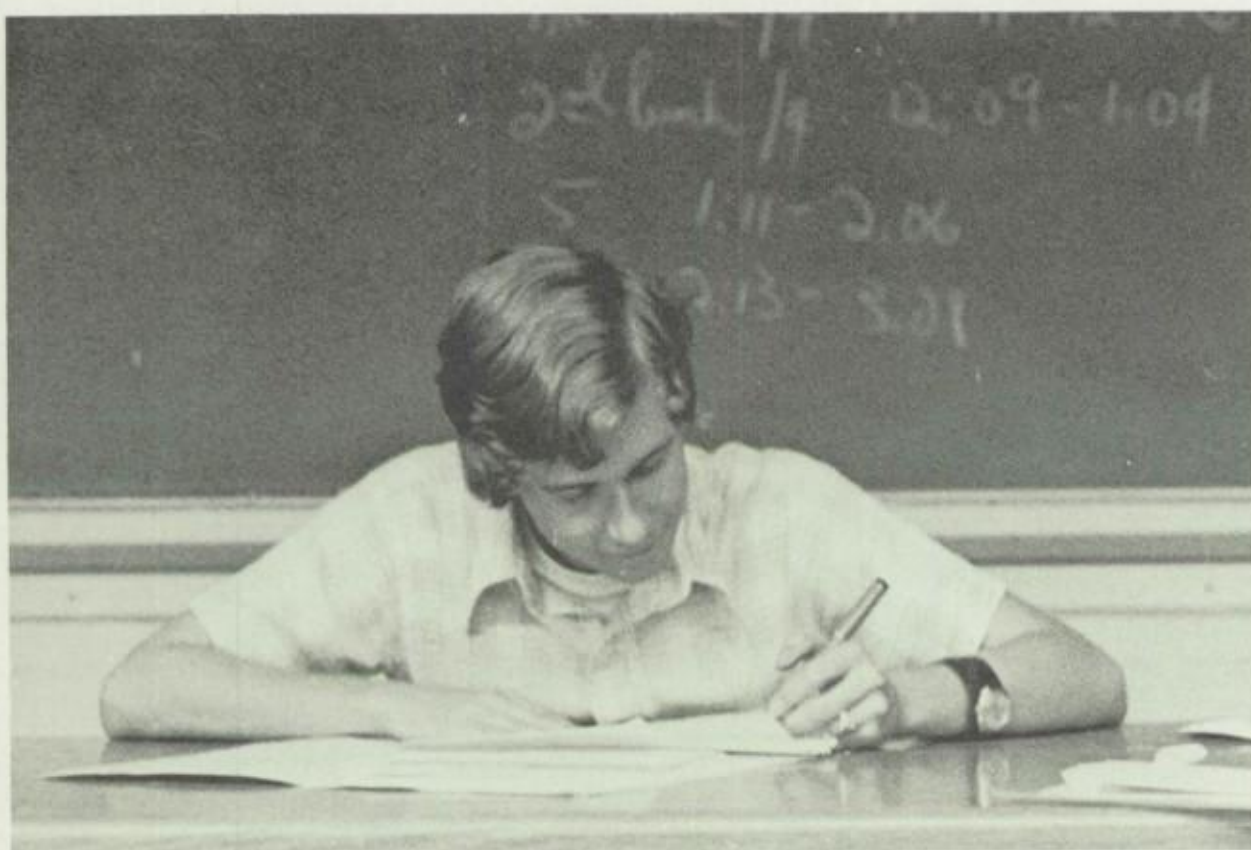

Swamped with papers, Student Body President Wayne Yehling (middle) attempted to organize the activities for November.

Dances, Homecoming and the Prom were some of the projects sponsored by the Student Senate this year. In February Student Senate showed the uncut version of the movie "Psycho" as a fund raising project. School year 1976-1977 marked the first year of the Homeroom Federation, which was responsible for the Homeroom Christmas baskets, the Badger Fund Drive and for relaying information, suggestions, and complaints between the Student Council and the homerooms.

as they entered the school year, a score of seniors strove to maintain their rankings, hoping to be recognized in the Top Twenty on graduation night.

- Being a Student director in the choir and co-captain on the gymnastics team were just two of Terry Anderson's activities. Terry also sang with her church and school ensembles.

- Motorcycle riding, bird hunting and hiking in the jungles of eastern Sinaloa were some of Mike Coumides' interests. He was also vice-president of NHS.

- Two of Head Letter Girl Beth Brooks' interests were bike riding and roller skating. She worked for a lawyer with the Professional Internship Program.

- Reading science fiction was one of Paul Eckerstrom's interests. As a senior, he was a member of District One's Student Advisory Council and the swim team. He planned a career in law and politics.

- Susie Stagner enjoyed poetry, music and camping. She was involved with the NHS and the Concert Choir. After high school Susie planned to visit Germany.

- Robert Johnson's job with the PIP was to work in an immunology research lab. His other activities included catering, scuba diving and hiking.

- Girl's swim team captain Laura Johnson was the secretary for the SAC in 1976-1977. She was the associate editor for the 1977 Tucsonian and planned a career in medicine.

Facing Page: (top) Andrea Dahlen checked her skiing equipment in preparation for a weekend trip to Colorado.

In an early morning practice, Bonnie Brady and Becky Baldwin (left) played their harp and cello for an upcoming concert.

Practicing for a Friday night game, Drum Major Robin Calkins (left) led the Marching 100 through the "Columbian March."

- Working at the University of Arizona's Student Union along with playing basketball and tennis were some of Jon Schneider's outside activities. Jon was vice-president of the NFL and belonged to NHS.

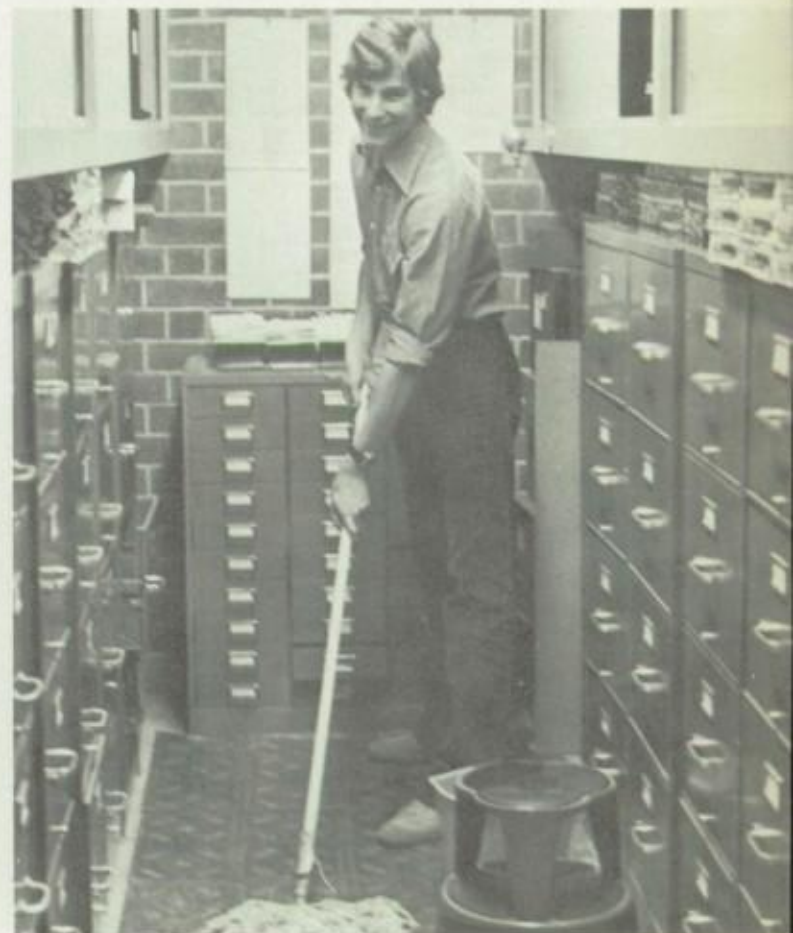

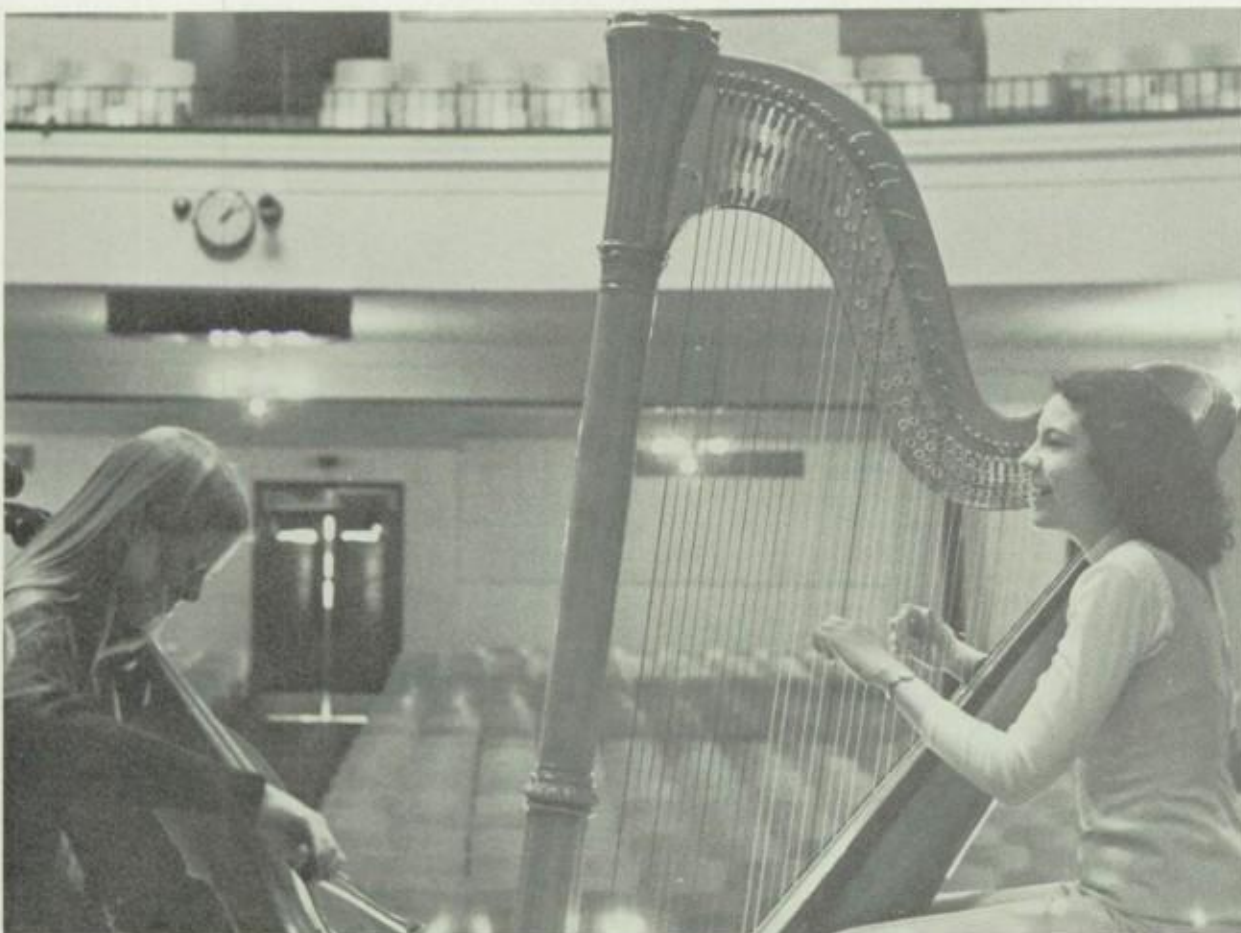

- Music was Bonnie Brady's main interest in high school.

She was involved with Concert Choir, Troubadours and Orchestra. Bonnie was also a member of the American Harp Society, Philharmonia and Tucson Civic Orchestras.

- Senior class president, Tom Harrell was involved with NHS, president of the NFL and a member of the Tucsonian staff. In four years on the Speech Squad he earned more competition points than any other person in Tucson High School's record.

- Robin Calkins served as the first female Drum Major at Tucson High. She was also a member of the Stage Band, Honor Band, Orchestra, Choir and the Quarterly staff. Robin was the co-captain of the gymnastics team and a member of the National Honor Society.

- Andrea Dahlen was active in Amigos de las Americas during her junior and senior years. Her interests were skiing, her church youth group and dancing "country swing." She was involved with SAC, PIP and the swim and tennis teams.

- Skiing, sailing and working in his father's law firm as a janitor were some of the spare time activities of Andy Schorr. He was a member of the National Honor Society and the Professional Internship Program.

- In Becky Baldwin's senior year she was involved with the Choir, Orchestra and the Tucson Philharmonia. Becky's interests included playing the mandolin and being a member of a Bible fellowship group.

Facing Page: (right) Preparing for an upcoming tennis match, Bill Burk practiced his serve during the sixth period tennis class.

Before school, senior Sharon Treat (above) posed on the steps of the cafeteria for the Tucsonian photographer.

- During her senior year, Sharon Treat scored a touchdown for the seniors in the 1977 Tidy Bowl. Sharon participated in track her junior year and enjoyed skiing.

- Kathy White served in the House of Representatives in the Model Legislature.

She also worked at the Arizona Pioneer Historical Society through PIP.

- The creative arts were the focus point for Eileen Tuuri's senior year. She was involved in Troubadours, Concert Choir and the editor of the Quarterly. In her spare time, she did stitchery.

- Drama, speech and dancing were some of the fine arts activities in which Ann Payson participated. Animals were also one of her interests. She owned three cats, one bird and a dog. Ann worked at the Thomas Davis Clinic in the Professional Internship Program.

- Tennis was one of Bill Burk's interests. He lettered in that sport for three years. Bill was one of only two seniors in the city involved in Synergy, a federally funded program which developed and investigated new learning processes. He was also a member of the Model United Nations, Student Government and NHS. Bill received the Boy's State Outstanding Citizen Award in 1976.

- Reading, singing and meeting people were some of the hobbies of Carolyn "Googie" French. She was a member of the Choralettes, Concert Choir and Troubadours. In her junior year she was a librarian for the choir and in her senior year she was president. Googie played the part of a dancing puppy when the Drama department presented "The Wizard of Oz" in 1976.

SPECIAL HONORS

Scholarships, awards and recognition for achievements were among the special honors won by Tucson High students this year. THS had three National Merit Scholarship semifinalists and Tom Harrell won a $1500 scholarship in the Senate Youth Contest.

- Mid-year graduate Nancy Patania was a National Merit Scholarship semifinalist.

- Tom Harrell had the highest score in the Tucson High phase of the Betty Crocker "Family Leader of Tomorrow" contest. He was also a state finalist in the Century III "Leader of Tomorrow" contest. Tom was selected the "Outstanding Junior Boy" of Tucson High by Brown University.

- Winning special commendations in the Arizona Interscholastic State

Drama finals were Phil Lollar, John Maldonado, Ann Ramirez, Steve Smith and Stephen Spinabella.

- Duane Smith was chosen to be in the High School division of "Who's Who in America."

CURRICULUM

Administrative duties were re-assigned when Mr. Evans became coordinator for the Special Projects High School. Mr. Garitano assumed responsibility for student services, Mr. Jones took over business affairs, while Mr. Maxwell supervised buildings and grounds

Administrators: J. McGee Evans, Kenneth Miles, Edward Maxwell, Robert Jones, Robert Garitano, Robert Granado, Dorthi Woodward.

This page: Prior to the committee reports, Mrs. Lorenz and Mr. Garitano waited for their group to join them (right).

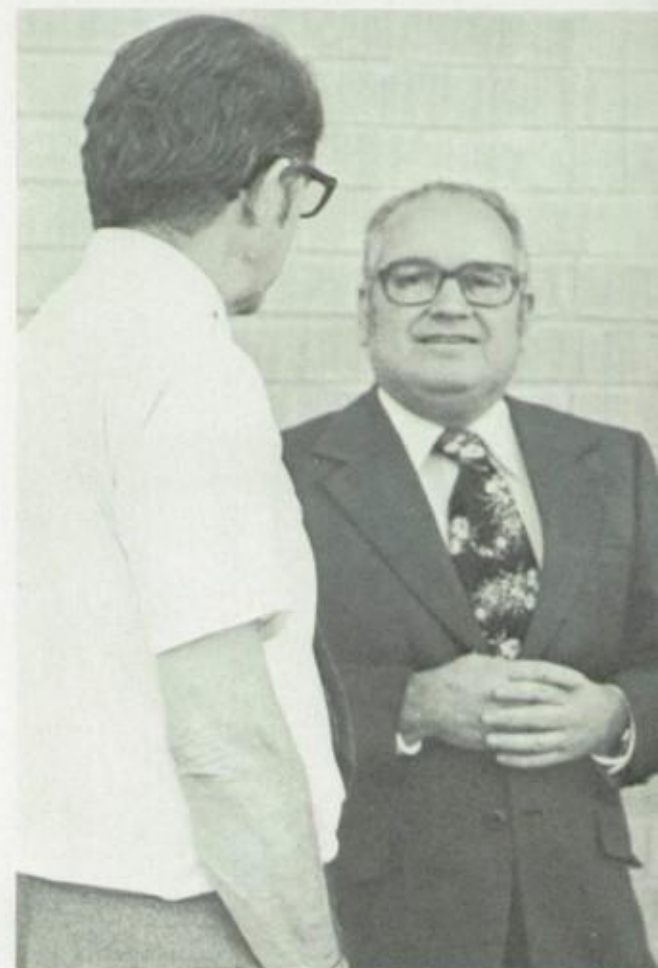

Mr. Jones and Mrs. Gilligan (below) reviewed some of the French Club's activities between second and third period.

School board member Soleng Tom explained a board decision (center right) to two North Central committee members.

Before the extended day program began, Mr. Maxwell (bottom right) checked on the bell schedule.

ADMINISTRATION

• In order to re-accredit Tucson High School, a comprehensive evaluation of THS was made this year by the North Central Evaluation Committee. Thirty seven educators from throughout Arizona made an on-sight inspection in February. Earlier in the year, faculty members and students worked on written reports concerning the strengths and weaknesses of school curriculum and activities. The North Central evaluators reported their recommendations to a faculty luncheon held in the cafeteria.

• In response to campus disturbances, the administration changed the schedule to provide time for two lunch periods instead of one. This reduced the number of students free on campus at any one time. Students were assigned a lunch time according to which building their class was in fourth period. Another schedule change involved the freshmen, who attended from second to sixth periods instead of from first to fifth.

COUNSELORS

Information on colleges, careers, and other vocations helped the Counselors provide guidance for Tucson High students. Organizing the quarterly registration occupied much of the Counselors time, as did students seeking to have their schedules changed.

With the help of a student aide, Dianna Taylor (below) reviewed and alphabetized the financial aid requests of THS students.

Counselors: Maynard Campbell, Lou Ann Daldrup, Richard Force, Cecilia Hall, Lupe Herrera, John Williams. (not pictured: Dianna Taylor)

LIBRARY

Library resources served both the school and the community this year. Several community organizations met in the library at night, while independent study classes met in the morning.

Several students stopped to converse while using the library's magazines (above left) to finish their English assignments.

The library provided a quiet place for two students to compare senior portraits of their friends. (above)

Librarians: Robert Kaiser, Rosia Key, William Wolfe.

SPECIAL PROGRAMS

Adaptive Ed, Extended Day and Special Projects

High School were special programs on the Tucson High campus. The Special Projects High School offered advanced courses in both vocational and academic areas to students from all over the district. The courses were geared toward taking the Advanced Placement tests in May. The Extended Day program offered a high school education to students working during the day. Another program gave special attention to students with learning disabilities and other handicaps.

Explaining a calculus problem concerning the rotation of a hyperbola, Mrs. Bishop pondered alternative methods (below).

FACULTY

Teachers were just as active as their students were when it came to interests outside of school. Some faculty members enjoyed golfing, hunting and skiing; others engaged in activities such as yoga and collecting rare artifacts.

In her sophomore English class, Mrs. Livingston, explained what was going on in Shakespeare's play Jullus Caesar.

This page: Heidi Gilligan, the new French teacher, added up her first quarter grades before her French Club meeting. (top)

During his Conversational Spanish class, Mr. Cawley (below) asked a student whether he had beaten boys or girls in his track meet.

Demonstrating the use of a chisel to his class, Mr. Matthews carved a smiling face out of a block of wood. (bottom right)

Addition of new classes and a restructuring of old ones increased choices for students. Modern Media added a class that gave students the opportunity to view classic films. Two teachers were hired to teach ten new classes in reading and writing. A class in world literature was offered for the first time.

When a student asked what an exclamation point looked like and was used for, Mrs. Nott contemplated a reply (top right).

Mr. Ruiz and Mr. Miranda discussed the curriculum for the third quarter classes for native Spanish speaking students. (above)

Following while the students read, Dennis Cawley aided in the translation (top right) of stories from "Cuentos Simpaticos."

David Brooks accepted the offer of conducting his class in Spanish (right) which was extended to him because of his complaints.

Bilingual job opportunities, communication with non-English speaking people and college requirements were reasons for many students to take a foreign language. Latin and Hebrew as well as the more conventional languages were offered by the department. Because of THS's ethnic make up, English as a second language was taught for native Spanish speakers.

During a break in the long period, (below) Scott Meyer turned around to ask a question on the upcoming test on "Pensativa."

SOCIAL STUDIES

National and local election year races enabled History and Government classes to diversify routine assignments. The study of the electoral process and political campaigns was enhanced by speeches from candidates of both major parties. The contenders spoke to the students on issues ranging from nuclear power to taxes.

Facing page: In his "Foreign Policy" class, Mr. Anderson quizzed his students on the meaning of the word "paradox" (top).

American History teacher Armando Bernal explained to his class the "Manifest Destiny" of the American westward movement (below).

SCIENCE

Science classes emphasized the metric system

this year because of the nation's planned conversion from English measurement. Most of the Science Department's courses were conducted on the "objective" basis. With the aid of teachers, individual lessons were completed at each student's own pace.

Facing page: Recopying the results from his lab experiment, an "Elements and Compounds" student finished up his objective. (bottom right)

With his forceps and scissors a biology student removed the outer layer of skin from a formaldehyde-soaked frog. (right center)

As they prepared for lab work, (bottom right) two beginning chemistry students quizzed each other on the names of pieces of equipment.

New books, classes, teachers and techniques of teaching brought a different outlook for the Mathematics Department. Data Processing, taught by Mrs. Loss let students experiment with the use of computers and their functions.

Mrs. Adams and Mrs. Modica team taught an individualized general math. Students worked on labs.

Third period General Math class listened to Mrs. Adams (top) explain their assignment for the day.

Helene Diamond (bottom) tried to solve one of her College Algebra problems before the bell rang.

Inspired by the Albert Einstein poster, (above) General Math students were encouraged to perform at their best.

FINE ARTS

HOME EC

Activities as diversified as the students themselves highlighted Home Economics and Fine Arts. Unique Home Ec. courses such as "His and Ms." and "Birth to Two" attracted both sexes. A mock wedding and a cocktail party took place. As a contribution to Tucson's Bicentennial celebration, art students created a five ton sculpture representing togetherness and the love of fellow man. The sculpture was installed in El Presidio Park.

Demonstrating the smoothing of a coil constructed pot (top right), Mr. Todd instructed his third period ceramics class.

While mixing up a batch of chocolate chip cookies, a third period cooking student was caught sampling the dough (lower right).

"Cooking for Two" students invited their friends to the annual cocktail party (bottom) held near the end of the quarter.

Home Economics (below): Betsy Babich, Marlene Musty, Doris Selby.

BUSINESS ED.

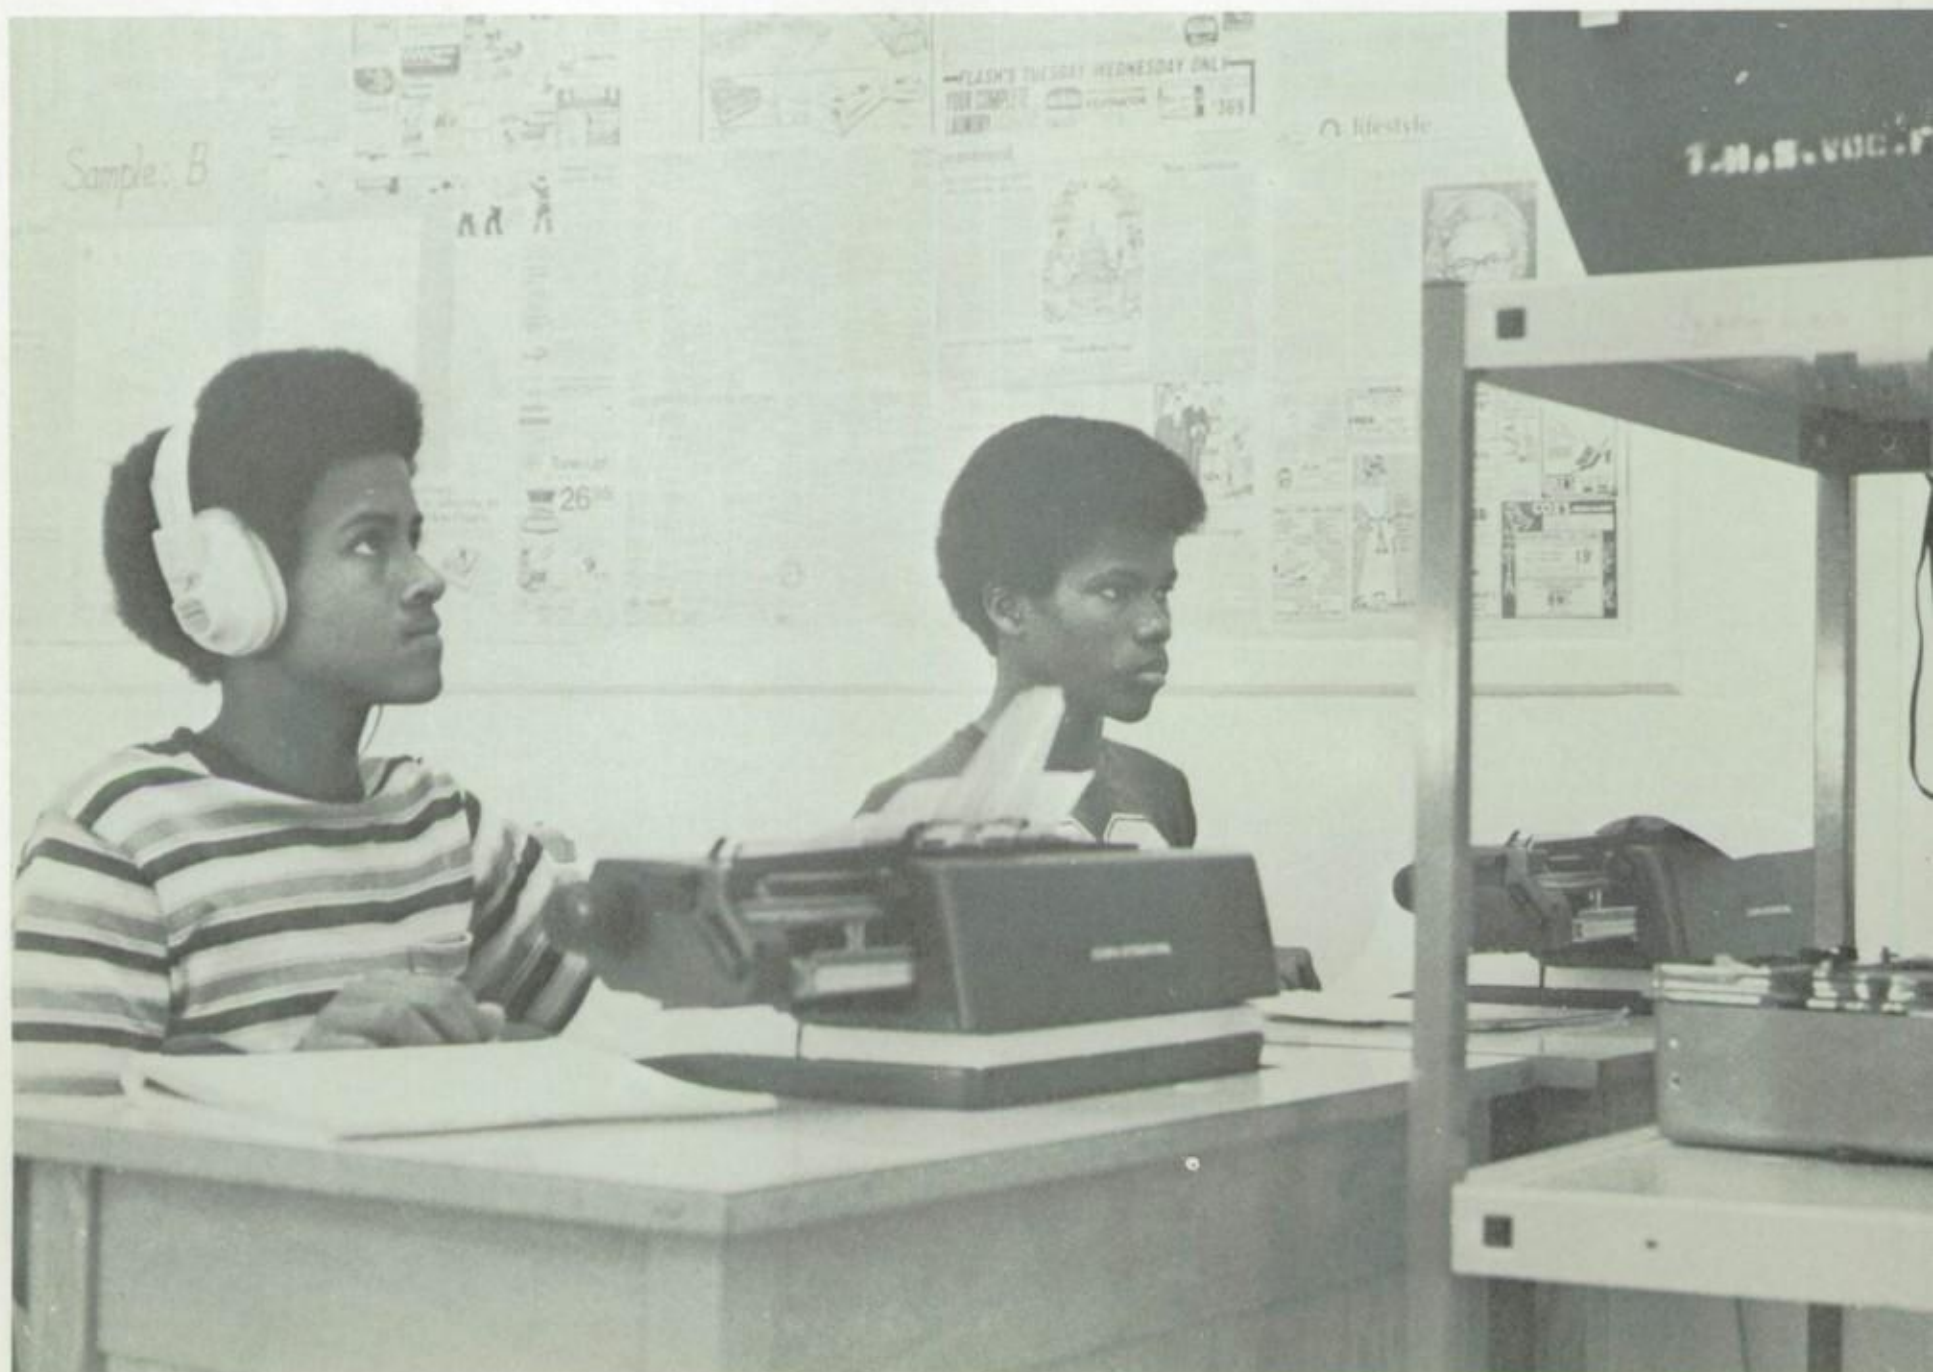

Labor relations and consumer protection laws were discussed and debated by Mrs. Row's Business Law class. State policies required every student to take a business course, Free Enterprise. The classes took several field trips including one to the Golden Eagle beer distributors and another to the Xanadu belly dance studio to see Free Enterprise in action. Television tapes, audio cassettes and related machinery in the typing lab facilitated learning to type for many students. Individuals were allowed to progress at their own rates with the help of teachers and aides.

Janet Hogan (right) practiced her finger placement on one of her typing assignments during sixth period.

DECA, COE and VICA provided work experience in several fields.

DECA was involved in marketing experiences. Students in COE worked for half the day and took classes concerning their jobs.

VICA members fixed TVs and radios to make money for the industrial club.

ADVANCED BAND

- The band's new uniforms failed to arrive in time for the 76-77 marching season, forcing the band to use its well-worn ten-year-old set.
- Early November marked the band's participation in Tucson's Annual Veteran's Day Parade.
- Due to a dispute between UA officials and the director of the band over the use of UA Stadium grounds, the Marching 100 (along with the majority of Tucson area schools) declined an invitation to participate in the Annual Band Day festivities.
- The band performed for all football halftime shows with the exception of the Buena game's at which the field was deemed unsafe for marching.
- Opting to forego the annual trip to Disneyland, the band found no necessity for a large-scale fund-raising effort. Instead, the band members saved their old newspapers for the money they brought at the recycling center.
- The advanced band performed in the Western Tucson segment of the Tucson All-City Band Festival.

- During the month of January the Troubadors of Tucson received a standing ovation at a Tucson District No. 1 Elementary School Banquet held at the El Dorado Country Club's Golden Bee Room.

- The Troubadors were judged by Rodney Ichenberger, a San Diego University Choral professor at the Pima Community College Ensemble Festival.

- The Troubadors were featured on a Channel 13 morning show during the Christmas season singing various carols.

- The North Central Evaluation team, along with the faculty of THS, was entertained by the ensemble at a luncheon held in early February.

- The THS ensemble joined forces with the CDO ensemble to perform the piece "Te Deum" in the spring.

- Frank Pooler, arranger for the "Carpenters", was a guest director for the ensemble in early April.

- Many members of both groups qualified for All-Regional Band, Choir or Orchestra, as well as a number of individuals going on to All-State.

Influenced by civil unrest in Mexico the Los Tucsonences Mexican dance group chose to go to Disneyland this year instead of their usual trip to Guadalajara. The dance group raised money by having tamale sales, sponsoring a booth at the Bazaar and selling cascarones at the games. El Club Cervantes sponsored the annual Mexican Bazaar. Bake sales and car washes supplemented their treasury.

CHRONICLE

76-77 was a year of changes for the Cactus Chronicle as the staff altered its layout style technically by adopting a lower case heading style, slimming column widths and using italics for captions. Content of the paper was also changed through the inclusion of more student life and human interest features. The Chronicle stepped up publications and put out 17 issues (as opposed to 13 last year) including a full-color, 8 page edition at the end of the year.

"Perspective" was the theme of this year's yearbook

as was evidenced in its cover design and layout style. Some of the changes that the book underwent included increased use of black space in division pages and opening, a return to color, adoption of lead-in headings and a larger closing section.

Coach Mayfield's promise came true as Tucson High beat Rincon 48-14.

- The Arizona Daily Star ranked Tucson as high as second in the state going into the sixth game of the season.

- Playing against Sunnyside Tucson's only returning starter Shon Neal sustained an injury to his left knee which ended his high school football career.

- Ending the season with a 7 win 3 loss record, the Tucson football team finished with the third best record in the city. Ronald Shepard was third leading rusher in the city while Ron Ramirez was the third leading passer. Jeff Lewis ended fourth in receiving, while Richard Cox ended the season with five interceptions, second best in the city.

- Closing the season in victory, the team took third in the Southern AAA West League.

Facing Page: Cheering on the THS Wrestling team to another victory, (top) the Mat Maids yelled "P-I-N pin pin."

This Page: For the first game of the season, the songleaders clowned around to the sound of "Whip Cream" (top left).

"Hey what do you say, Hey what do you say," yelled Sandy Hernandez, (top right) during the final period of the game.

With a simple single kick, the songleaders perfected a basic dance routine that they performed at the Amphi game (center).

SONGLEADERS AND MAT MAIDS

Songleaders received the "Pep Pennant" for being the most spirited squad at the World Cheerleading Council held at A. S. U. this summer. In order to go to State with the Wrestlers, Mat Maids held numerous car washes and raised money for uniforms.

B-TEAMS

Robert Johnson (bottom left) was able to penetrate the key in order to get into position for a high percentage shot.

(bottom right) Discussing possible situation that might take place on the following play, Jerry Curtis advised the team.

B-teams were a new concept this year as the Junior Varsity and Frosh squads merged due to district budget cuts. Adjusting to this change, B-football won their first two games defeating Rincon and Sabino.

According to B-team Basketball coach, Jerry Curtis, the prospects for a winning team seemed possible. Practice started out with over 100 people going out for the team; only 15 were kept.

Quarterback Joe Pereyda (top) looked for a receiver downfield while being pursued by a Buena lineman.

Trying for a first down, Willie

Centers (middle) found an opening in the defensive line of Rincon.

As he took the ball from quarterback Joe Rodriguez, Bobby Contreras (below-left) plowed up the middle for a gain of five yards.

B-football line coach Mr. Ed Lucz (below-right) phoned the press box to see how the game looked from above.

DRILL TEAMS

For the Sabino pre-game show, Flag girl Frances Galvan (center) walked on to the field to the "March of the Olympians."

Facing page: Debbie Hafkamyer chatted with fellow twirler (bottom left) before getting ready to perform at half-time.

With different steps and movements

the Lettergirls

performed at each football game. Under the direction of Lucilie Warren, the Flag girls added a flourish to their routine. Pre-season practice improved the Twirlers half-time performances.

VARSITY TRACK

Running the eight-eighty, Robert Robles and Steve Linzy paced themselves for the final stretch (above).

Straining under the pressure of a practice sprint, a Tucson trackster (top right) ran through to the finish.

Working out for an upcoming track-meet, a team member leaped into the air in order to gain distance in the long-jump (right).

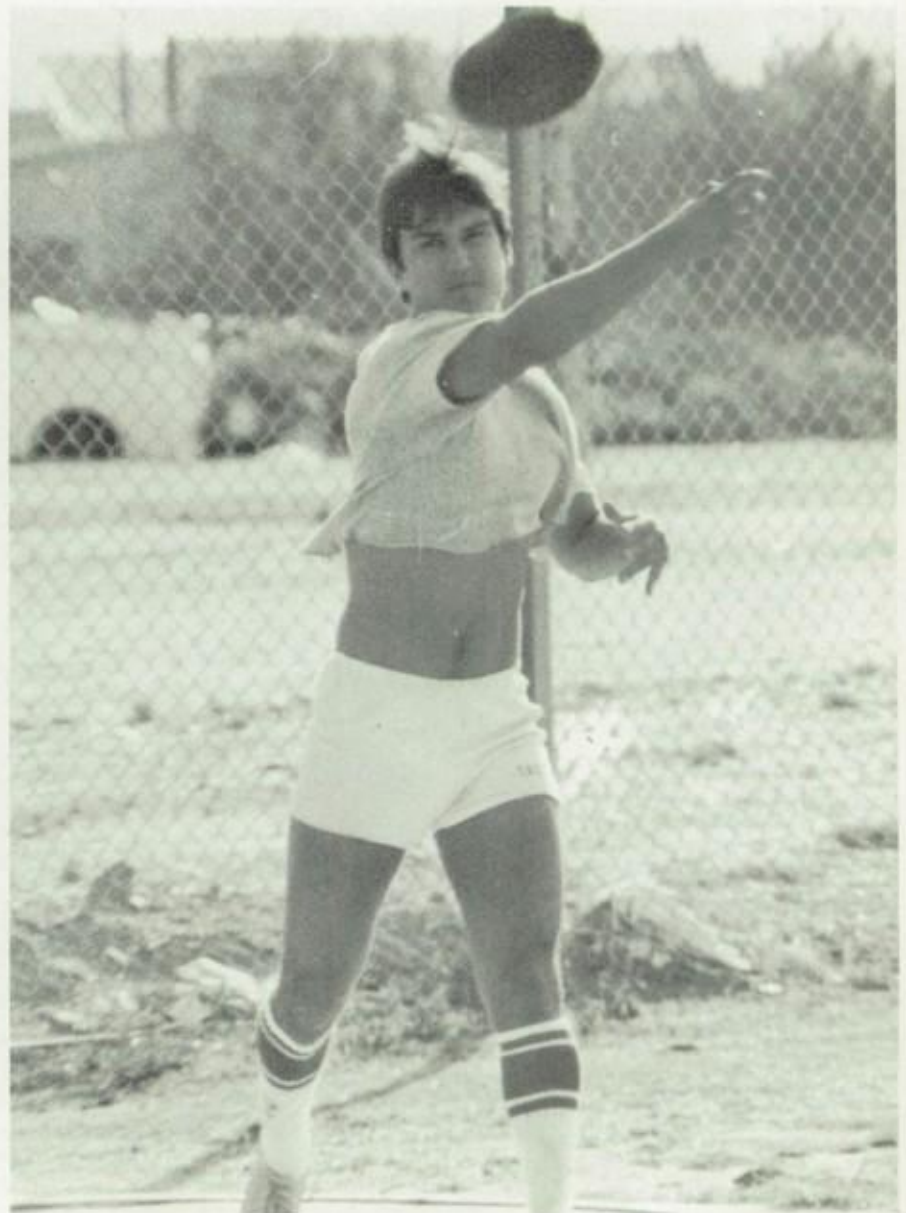

Optimistic about the upcoming year, Tucson High track coach Brett Dunkelman felt a good goal for his team would be a winning season. In attaining this objective, Dunkelman noted strength in long-jump, sprints and hurdles as important factors in each of the meets during the year.

Training for the mile run, distance runner Mario Yrun (left) sprinted for the finish line during an afternoon workout.

Tony Burns (below) concentrated on the release of a twelve-inch discus in an effort to increase the length of his toss.

Starting the season under new Head Track Coach

Bret Dunkelman, Girl's Track and B-track looked forward to a successful year. Mr. Dunkelman, last years' Cross-country coach was picked for this position after Coach Ollie Mayfield resigned the post.

Landing in the sand pit, Alice Quihuis (right) stretched her legs in an effort to gain a few extra inches on her jump.

Mike Johnson (below-right) attempted to push himself over the balanced bar as he used the metal pole as leverage.

Jogging around the track at Cherry Field, Linda Razo (below) trained herself for long distance running.

B-TRACK

Nancy Elem (top) took a few minutes to train for the long jump during a workout at Cherry Field.

In an effort to gain the greatest distance on his toss, Gene Trujillo (below-left) concentrated upon the 10 pound shot ball.

Straining his arm muscles in order to set the discus in motion, Izell Green (below-right) released the weight.

VARSITY BASEBALL

In an effort to get the third strike

Larry Benitez (below-left) hurled a fastball in the direction of home plate.

SOFTBALL

Applying the bat to the leather, (top)

Alejandrina Coronado socked the pitch for a basehit against Catalina.

Romelia Buelna (center) prepared to catch the ball at home plate in an effort to prevent the opposing team from scoring.

Putting the tag on a Cholla base runner, Paula Dockins (below-left) was able to attain the first out in the fourth inning for Tucson High.

Improving as the season went on, the Tucson High softball team was able to attain a berth in the District Tournament with a 7-2 victory over Salpointe in a playoff game. Josie Camacho pitched for the team throughout the year and Alejandrina Coronado led in hitting with an average of .450.

B-BASEBALL

A team member playing the 'hot corner' nabbed a line drive and threw it to first for an out (above-right).

Armando Duran (above-left) scooped the bouncing ball from the infield grass and threw it to first base for the out.

Eyeing the second baseman, shortstop Bobby Pena, (lower-left) prepared to get the first out on the double-play.

A Tucson High batter popped a short foul off to the right as he swung on a pitch that was above shoulder height (lower-right).

V - GOLF

Hoping to improve last year's mark of 2-12, the Tucson High golf team practiced under the coaching of Harry Smith.

Driving the ball down the fairway, Jay Higgins (below-middle) hoped to get himself into position for a score of par.

(below) Driving the ball to the green, Keith Baum concentrated on his form and style to prepare for the season.

WRESTLING

Taking fourth in the holiday tournament

the Tucson High wrestling team showed strength in the lighter weight groupings. John Ochoa was tournament champion in the 105 weight class and Mario Terrazas placed first in the 112 division. James Cardenas was runner-up in his grouping. Other teams that did well in the tournament were Sahuaro, Pueblo and Catalina who placed first, second and third respectively proving themselves to be the teams to beat in the AAA South.

Testing the disadvantaged opponent's flexibility, Frank Duarte (center) bent the Pueblo wrestler's leg into an abnormal position.

Facing Page (bottom): James Cardenas with a hold on his opponent's neck and leg attempted to end the match with a pin.

Maneuvering from the referee's position, Charles DeBerry (right) put pressure on his opponent's side.

As he listened to advice from Coach Tom Lundy, Frank Duarte (left) had a moment to catch his breath before action resumed.

CROSS COUNTRY

Integrating their class into the mainstream of THS life took several weeks for the freshmen. An orientation before the school year began introduced the ninth-graders to the school. Freshmen representatives in the student council sponsored a water balloon toss for Spirit Week and raised money by holding several car washes.

Before games the cheerleaders painted large posters (top right) to boost the spirit of the school.

Sophomores began the school year

by holding fund-raising activities such as car washes and bake-sales to rebuild the class treasury. Sophomores then concentrated on Spirit Week festivities, for which they held an "egg the Trojan" day in anticipation of homecoming. The sophomores decorated their hall with the names of THS sports figures.

SENIORS

Seniors began their last year at THS by selling saliditos and mistletoe. As Spirit Week approached, the senior class planned a Legs Contest and

"The Badger Country" western theme for their hall. Two seniors were chosen to attend the Arizona Association of Student Councils annual Convention and brought back ideas for the class to work on, such as new ways to increase the school spirit.

STUDENT OPINIONS

How has the fence affected you?

"Things have been very peaceful for me since it was erected . . . it makes me late for classes . . . it makes the school look nicer . . . it isn't very convenient . . . I get a lot of exercise walking a block out of my way or climbing it . . . when I want to leave, I leave . . . I've learned to accept it . . . a huge waste of money . . . it hinders my spiritual freedom . . . ! have to walk farther . . . I can't go to the U of A to eat . . . it's something I've seen at many schools . . . it doesn't matter to me . . . really ugly . . . it wouldn't be so bad if the gates were left open."

How would you rate teachers and classes at THS?

"The variety of classes is good . . . some teachers are questionable . . . classes are too easy . . . very good . . . lots of individual attention . . . good teachers outnumber the bad . . . teachers are either horrible or fantastic . . . some teachers really have it together . . . stricter teachers are needed . . . most of classes have helped me."

What do you like best about THS?

"Conference periods . . . the schedule . . . learning and having fun with people of different cultures . . . the choice of classes

. . . getting out early . . . the teachers taking time to help . . . the changes taking place . . . the people . . . it's racially balanced . . . data processing . . . it's old and traditional . . . going home . . . the administration."

What's most important to you?

"Advanced placement classes . . . a relaxed atmosphere . . . the quality of the teachers . . . that the required classes are useful to me . . . being able to ditch a class now and then . . . pride in the school . . . getting along with my teachers . . . a quality education . . . speech squad . . . being motivated . . . having a good tennis team . . . talking to people . . . getting a diploma."

During your time here, has the school improved or declined?

"Improved—it's the school that tries new programs . . . declined—no break between 2nd and 3rd periods . . . less school spirit . . . I love Tucson High . . . there are less funds provided . . . not much has changed . . . teachers have better teaching methods . . . I don't like split lunch . . . it's hard to say . . . there are no honor classes . . . the campus has improved, new gym and cafeteria, nice landscaping . . . generally improved . . . it's better academically . . . improved—I guess my presence here has been beneficial to you all."

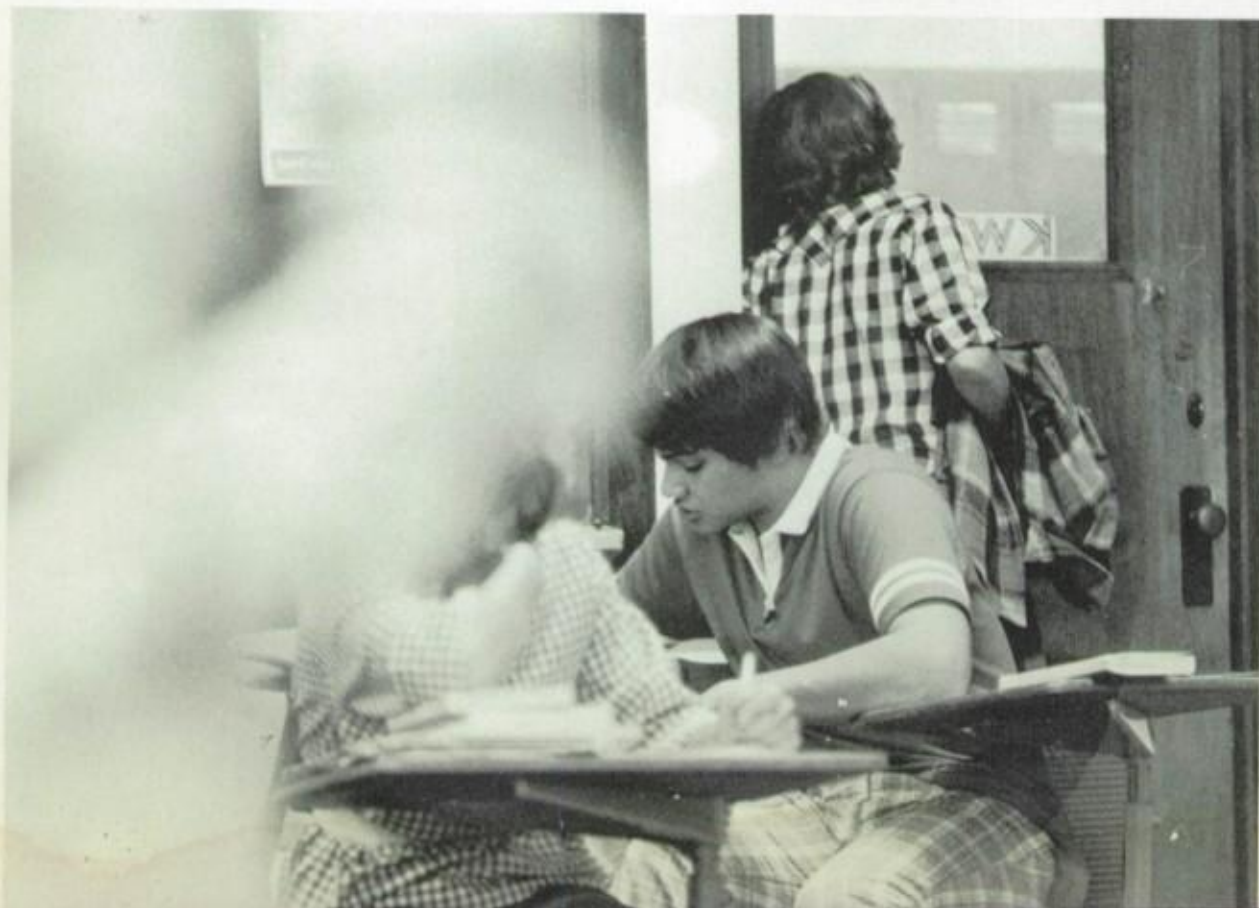

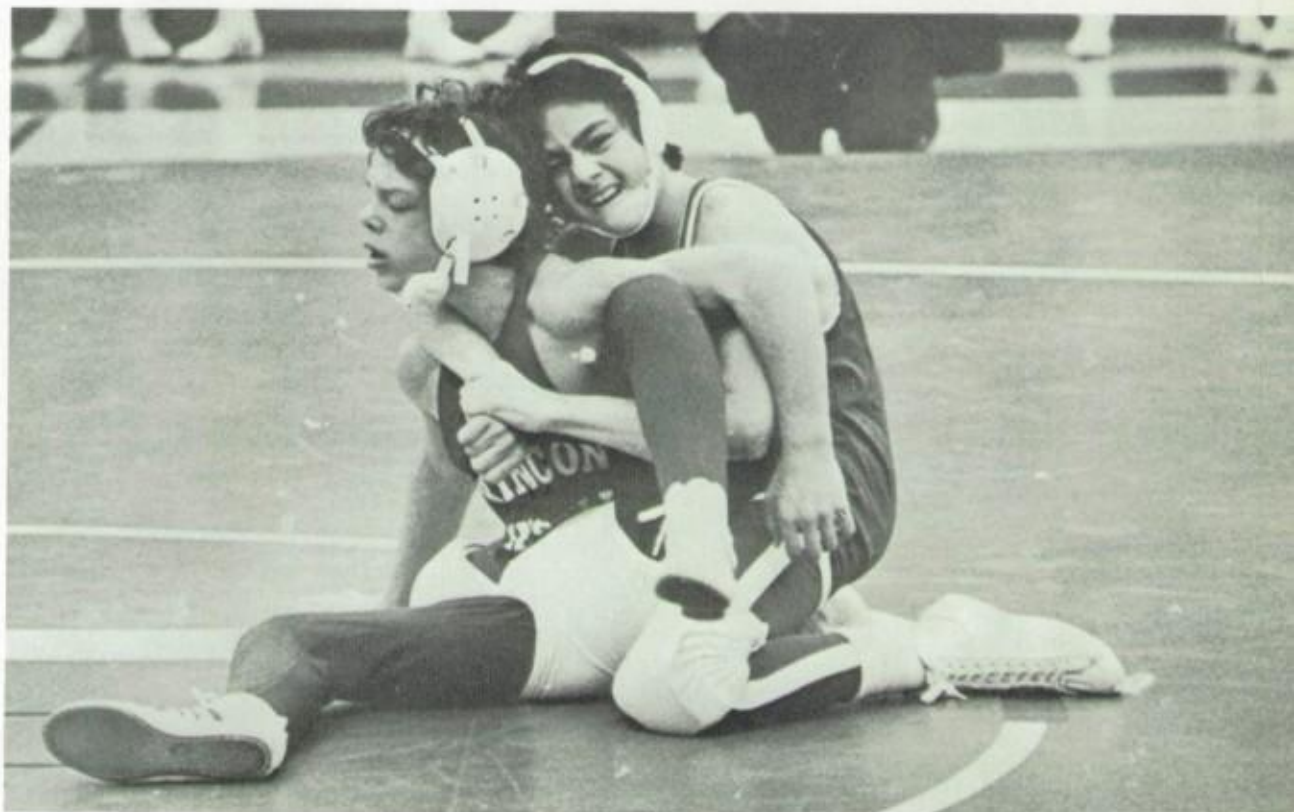

What do you think of student government?

"It's doing a good job . . . I don't have an opinion . . . it's a good idea . . . it's crucial to the continuing prosperity of THS . . . it doesn't communicate with the students . . . it's all right . . . I didn't know we had one . . . it has been effective in modeling the real government . . . it's definitely necessary . . . inactive . . . it's trying to do what's best for the whole school."

What is Tucson High all about?

"Being No. 1 in sports, speech, music and honor students . . . competing . . . I don't know . . . growing up . . . I'm not into prisons . . . learning as much outside the classroom as inside . . . homework . . . best school in the district . . . friends . . . education . . . boring teachers . . . acting cool . . . variety of races, religions and cultures . . . four years . . . earning a diploma."

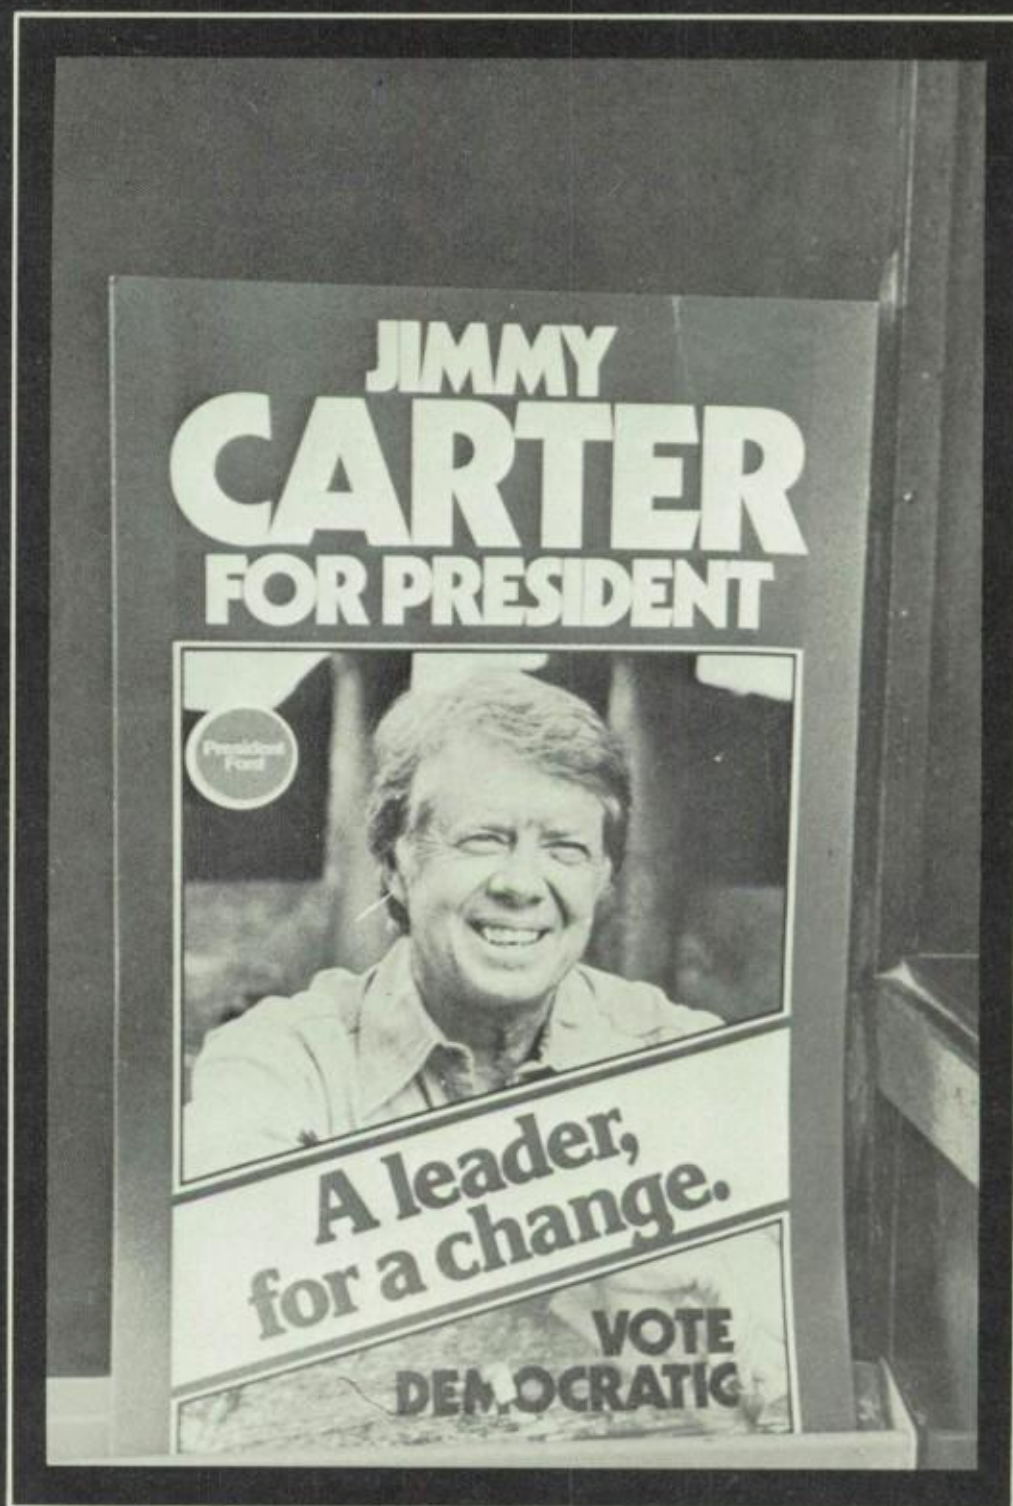

What do you think of the national government under Pres. Carter?

"Carter seems to have good ideas . . . he's okay . . . he's working hard . . . Jimmy Carter is a breath of fresh air . . . a new beginning . . . peanuts . . . not much progress so far . . . I wish him luck . . . it's about time we had a democratic president . . . questionable . . . sincerity in his toothy grin . . . incompetent . . . I like him . . . we'll be lucky if we survive."

Why are sports at Tucson High so important?

"The body should be kept in shape . . . build character . . . feeling of belonging . . . home of the champions . . . popularity . . . keep people in school . . . spirit . . . something people can do together . . . traditional . . . a chance to relax . . . they aren't . . . leadership . . . keep jocks occupied . . . sportsmanship . . . escape from studying . . . pride . . . another form of education . . . fun . . . an outlet for emotions . . . hold student body together."

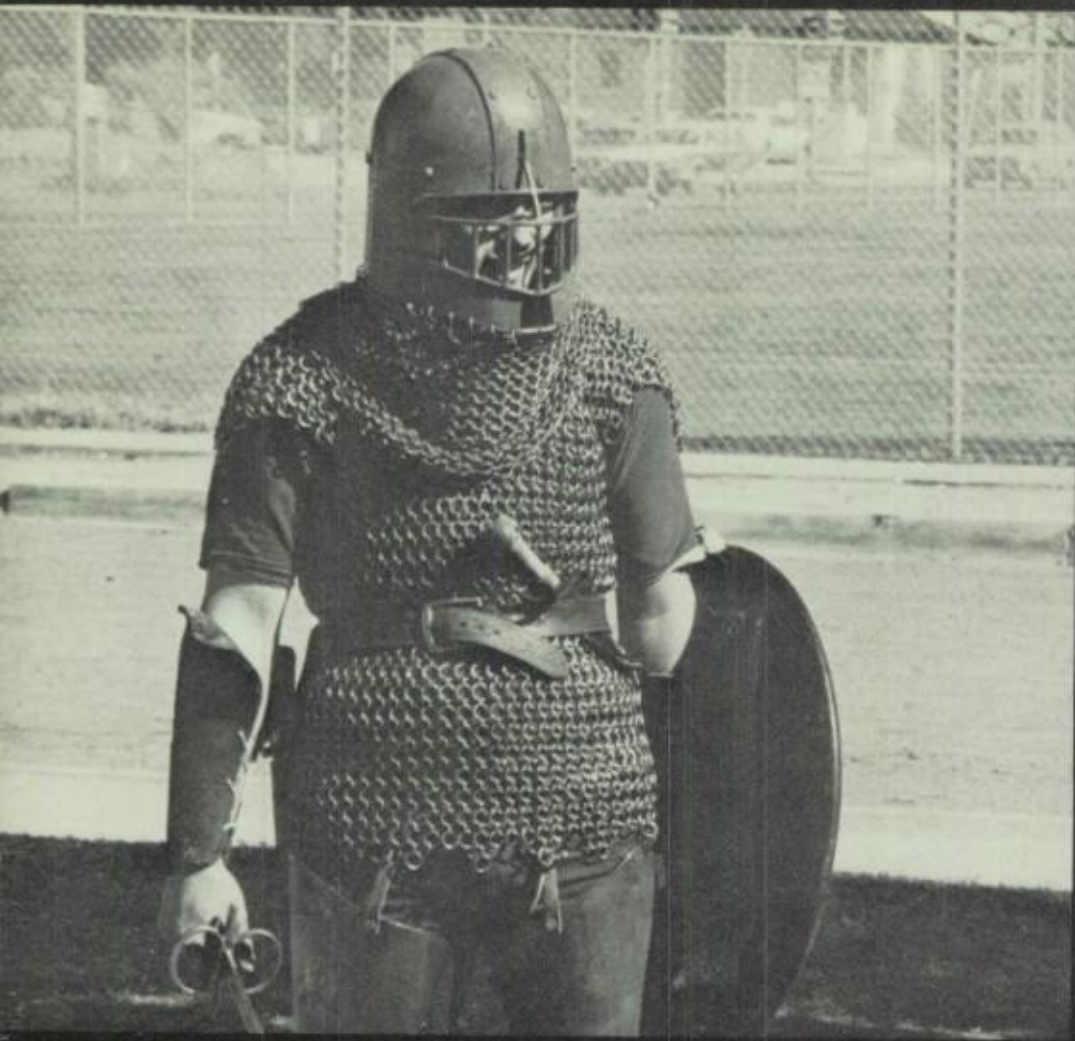

1976-77 saw local and national elections and the close of the Bicentennial year. Closer to home, there was controversy over water rates and the construction of a fence around Tucson High.

Religious, social, and athletic associations formed during the year, reflected the wide array of student interest.

Mike
you are really the cutest guy I ever know. I am really glad I got to know you this way. I only wish that we could get on closer. Anyway, Mike take care of yourself and I'll hope I see you during the summer. I wish you would clunk so that I'd be able to see you next year. But take care and May God Bless you always. Remember me when you're out partying.
Love you forever
